QUIET PREVAILS IN SPRINGFIELD OVER SUNDAY

No Radical Disturbance Following Restriction Enforcement.

Sheriff is Placed in Complete Charge

To Consider Withdrawal of Troops.

(By Associated Press)

Springfield, O., March 13.—No further racial disturbances occurred here during the day.

The restrictions barring citizens from the streets after six o'clock and forbidding public assemblage except for church services were again in force tonight.

Street cars stopped running at 7 o'clock and the military and police vigil of Saturday night was renewed.

The only modification of the closing orders was that permitting people to attend Sunday evening religious services and allowing drug stores to remain open. Otherwise, the city was closed at six o'clock.

Whether this restriction will be continued tomorrow night depends upon developments. Colonel Robert Haubrich and City Manager Edgar E. Parsons announced.

In practically every church in Springfield today, the pastors talked on the racial disorders which caused state troops to be brought here last week for the third time in the last seventeen years. All of them urged their congregations to refrain from acts which might incite rioting.

Civil and military authorities are expected to hold a conference in the morning to consider the withdrawal of troops, provided there are no further disturbances during the night...

(By Associated Press)

Springfield, O., March 12.—Sheriff David Jones of Clark county was placed in complete charge of the situation here growing out of racial disorders which culminated in the shooting of a patrolman and a negro last night, at a conference of military and civil officials here today.

Major Westcott announced that it was the opinion of the conference that the situation could be handled by the sheriff and he was placed in charge in preference to putting the city under military or martial law.

MANY HAVE RIFLES

Police say they have information that many of the negroes are armed with Springfield rifles which they purchased several years ago following previous race riots when the government placed a large number of the firearms on the market.

PATROLMAN WILL RECOVER

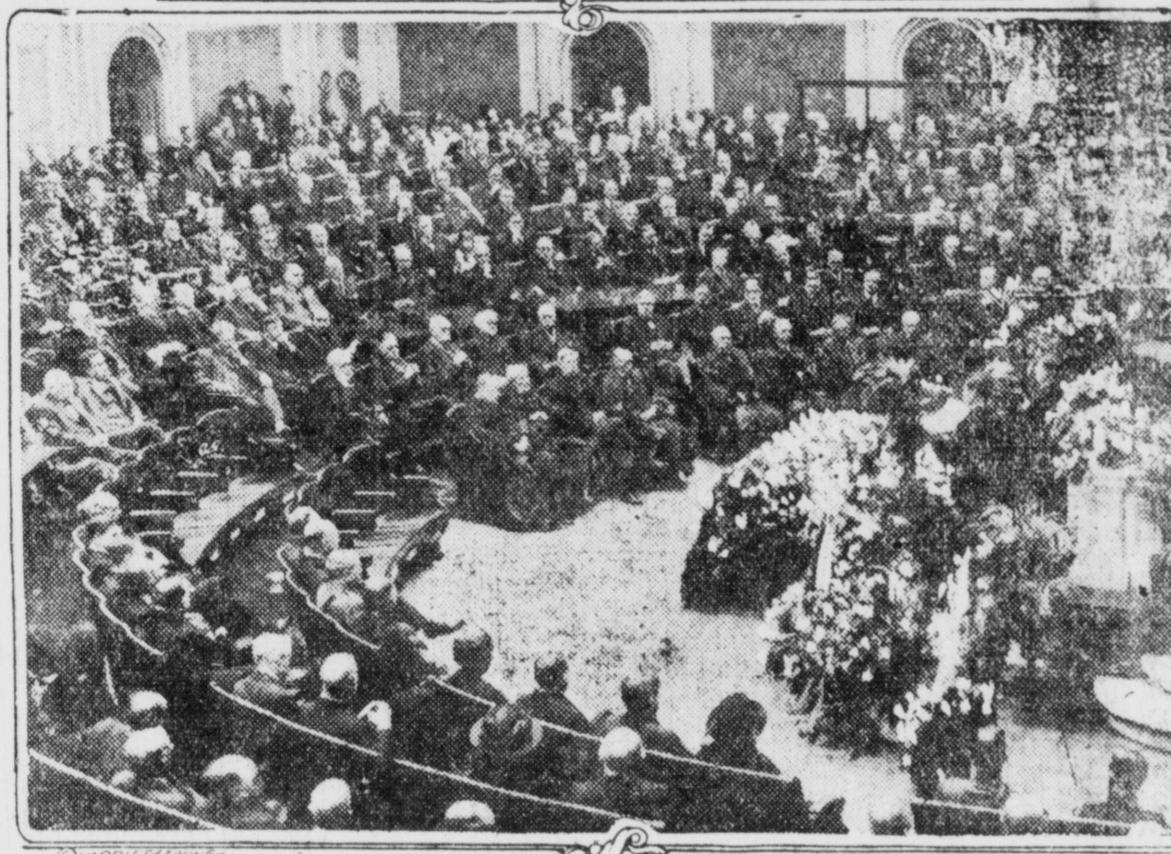

Patrolman Ryan was not as badly wounded as first believed. One bullet from White's revolver penetrated his neck, another his hand. He will recover.

Adjutant General George Florence who spent the early part of the day here conferring with city officials as to plans for maintaining order, returned to Columbus during the afternoon and left Colonel Robert Haubrich in charge of the military forces on duty here. The eight companies comprising Colonel Haubrich's command are: B of Columbus, C of London, I of Columbus, M of Marysville, supply and headquarters companies of Columbus and the two separate machine gun companies of Springfield.

The sea monster was in sight of the bathers near the Breakers' Pier when discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Zeigfeld had ended a day's fishing trip in Mr. Reagle's boat, when their attention was directed to the monster.

Immediately, two fast motor boats started in pursuit. Airplanes followed the boats and watched the struggle.

ACCUSED SMITH WOMAN IN LAST STATEMENT MADE

Dying Confession of Jake L. Hamon is Introduced

Said Woman Shot Him While He Was in Bed

W. B. Nichols, former chief of police of Ardmore and business associate of Hamon, told the jury that Jake Hamon after telling Nichols he knew he would die from the bullet wound, said Clara Hamon had fired the bullet as she stood at his bedside stroking his head.

The witness when assailed by the defense counsel for not having assisted Russel B. Brown, former county attorney, in his investigation of the shooting, said Jake Hamon in making his alleged dying statement had exacted a promise that it would not be revealed until absolutely necessary.

NEGRO TAKEN FROM JAIL BY A MOB AND HANGED

(By Associated Press)

Versailles, Ky., March 13.—Richard James, negro, charged with the murder of Ben T. Rogers and Homer Nave at Midway, this county, on October 8, last, was taken from the Woodford County jail by a mob early this morning and hanged from a tree two miles from this city.

The mob, numbering about 50 men, came to Versailles between one and two o'clock this morning by automobile. A guard was placed around the jail and four men went to the door, aroused John T. Edger, the jailer, took his keys away from him and went to the negro's cell where they overpowered the prisoner.

A rope was placed about James' neck and he was thrown in a machine, taken two miles from Versailles and hanged to tree by the roadside.

The trial of the negro for the murder of Rogers and Nave who were employed as guards at a distillery, ended Saturday night when the jury reported that it was unable to reach a verdict. The guards were killed while defending the distillery from an attack by a party of farm men, who were attempting to remove whiskey.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 12.—We shall bring five distinct charges of infidelity against James A. Stillman and we expect no difficulty in proving them."

This was the rejoinder tonight by John E. Mack, one of the attorneys for Mrs. Anna U. Potter Stillman, wife of the multi-millionaire New York banker, who is being sued for divorce.

"We shall prove also," said Mack, the legitimacy of the child, Guy Stillman."

Minsk Held Five Hours By Rebel Forces

(By Associated Press)

Warsaw, Petrograd, March 12.—Petrograd is in the hands of revolutionary forces and the Bolsheviks have been ousted, it was declared in a wireless dispatch received here today.

A dispatch from Vilna said anti-bolshevist forces fought their way into Minsk and held control of the city for five hours, but were later driven out by soviet forces.

While occupying the city, the revolutionists killed many local communists, it is said, and when the Bolsheviks re-entered the town they executed more than two hundred persons, many of whom were Poles, who were accused of sympathizing with the insurgents.

Hard Facts About Rates

There is no argument and no prophecy so convincing as facts. Facts are incontrovertible.

More than a year ago when the controversy between the gas and electric company and the city, regarding rates to be charged for those essentials to community life—light, heat and power—arose there was a difference of opinion as to what course should be pursued. At that time it was impossible for any one to know just what the result of a failure to adjust those differences would be.

There were different opinions. Those who advocated an amicable adjustment of the differences, with both the company and the city making some concessions, contended that, by following such a course, while the consumer might be required to pay an increased rate for service, yet that increase would not be so great as it was likely to be if the city officials ignored the claims of the company and granted no concessions.

Others, quite naturally, objected to granting any increase at all and insisted that the old rate could be maintained and to grant any increase was wholly unnecessary.

Heretofore both contenders have been free to advocate and defend their views and neither able to produce proof of the correctness of their contention.

Now the argument period has passed and we have collided—head-on—with concrete facts and that particular kind of facts in this instance are hard facts.

Next month when Washington consumers receive their bills for electricity they will discover that, speaking roughly, they will be compelled to pay about twice, or more, as much as formerly.

To illustrate by example:

The average home owner has been paying for his light about $1.50 per month; now he must pay $3.50 per month. Had the compromise proposal been accepted he would have paid beginning in April $2.64.

The average consumer of electricity for power purposes has been paying say $15.00 per month. Now he must pay $36.00 per month. Had the compromise proposals been accepted he would have paid beginning in April $25.00.

For lighting our stores and places of business, taking $25.00 per month as an average, the bill will now jump to $46.40 per month. Had the compromise been made it would have increased to $33.92 per month.

It is indisputably true that the consumers, large and small, are thus far, big losers by the refusal of the officials to compromise the rate claims.

It is asserted that the company's revenues will be increased by the new schedule, to the amount of $42,000 per year. The consumer will pay it.

What now, in view of developments, is to be done?

There is a possibility, of course, that the new rate may be overturned, by court decision, and a new one established, when, in the course of events, the litigation finally reaches an end. The company, doubtless, recognizes that and would rather be an agreeable co-worker in the local field than an enemy litigant and, that being true, there are many who favor honest endeavors to bring about a compromise even at this late day.

The chief objection to the attitude of the city officials, however, is that their campaign is one of resistance only—a sort of negative stand which can't get us anywhere.

If the local utilities company is to be resisted, if we are to endeavor to procure a lower rate the people want a definite and an aggressive campaign. The utilities company, manifestly, has a definite plan of procedure and is executing that plan while the city contents itself with defending and resisting the execution of the company's plans.

The city officials should be on the aggressive to procure lower rates and that means a big fight, a long fight and a costly fight. It is a fight, however, or compromise. We can't drift along doing nothing on our own account while higher rates are fastened upon the consumers.

Local electric current users are suffering now from a lack of affirmative and aggressive action on the part of the city officials while the utilities company proceeds with the execution of its plans. We must move if we are ever going to get anywhere.

We should compromise or fight.

POETRY FOR TODAY

PRIMROSE LANE

Every life has a primrose lane where dreams go up and down As over the hills the little path leads from the singing town. And primrose lane is sweet in spring, As it is sweet in fall, With thoughts that are like flowers that cling To the cool and crannied wall.

Once when a lad in garret room my primrose lane was there Across the meadows of August bloom is the sweet of the country air. But I've found it, too, in the city street And found it high and low In the dreams that keep their honeyed sweet, No matter what road we go.

I shall not fear while primrose lane shines in my life along, For out of the storm shall come to me the lift of the robin's song. And beat as they may, the hammers they Can never quite drown for me The choir I've heard of the mocking bird On the bough of the dreamland tree. Baltimore Sun.

DEADLY POISON DISCOVERED BY CHEMICAL DEPT.

New York, March 12.—The Chemical Warfare Service has discovered a liquid poison so strong that three drops will kill any one whose skin it touches it became known here today.

Fall like rain from nozzles attached to airplane the liquid would kill everything in the aircraft's path according to a high official of the service.

A description of what the new war weapon would do, in the opinion of this official, follows:

"One plane carrying two tons of the liquid could cover an area 100 feet wide, by seven miles long in one trip and could deposit enough material to kill every man in that area, and if those on the ground were not protected by gas masks, the area of fatality would be many times greater."

"The only limit to the quantity of this liquid could be made is the amount of available electric power as nearly every nation has practically an unlimited supply of the necessary raw materials. It would be entirely possible for this country to manufacture several thousand tons per day of the necessary plants had been built.

"During the Argonne offensive the entire first American army of 1,250,000 men occupied an area approximately 40 kilometer long by 80 kilometers wide. If Germany had had 4000 tons of this material and 400 planes equipped for its distribution the entire first army would have been annihilated in 12 hours.

"The chemical warfare service is developing protective clothing to entirely cover the wearer and make him impervious to the deadly liquid."

statesmanship during the war.

It is true that a month later he delivered one of the several speeches which formed the high spots in the acknowledged superiority of his utterances. It is also true that still another month later, in October, 1918, was the time of the superbly directed correspondence with Germany leading up to the armistice. But also it was in this same month that Wilson fell into the lapse which he himself thought was the most unwise act of his career—the request to the country to elect a partisan Democratic congress.

The latter part of October, 1918, and November, when Wilson made his decision to go in person to the Peace Conference, was well known at the time to those close to the situation to be a period when the state of the President's health impaired the value of his decisions. That he was not a well man throughout the Peace Conference was well known to everybody who had contact with him.

His Judgment Impaired

That the impairment of his health affected the quality of tremendous decision he was compelled to make from hour to hour was not obvious to those who only see the obvious, but it was sombrely apparent to every one with thought enough to understand that no man can be ill in health without being also below his best in thought. That men's judgments are affected by the state of their physical health is one of the commonest of facts, but is also one of the facts most commonly ignored.

Ray Stannard Baker, who was one of Wilson's closest intimates at the Peace Conference, recorded the progressive deterioration in the President's health. "More than once," he writes, "there in Paris, going up in the evening to see the President, I found him looking utterly worn out, exhausted, often one side of his face twitching with nervousness. No soldier ever went into battle with more enthusiasm, more inspiration, more devotion to a sacred cause than the President had when he came to Paris. But day after day in those months we saw him growing grayer and grayer, grimmer and grimmer, with the fighting lines deepening in his face."

The sentimental saw the physical sickness only as a personal tragedy, but the more penetrating saw what went with it—the falling off from the highest efficiency of thought and decision, which always can have, and in this case did have, consequences wider than personal.

Later on, as the diaries kept at the Peace Conference and the private letters from Paris to America became available for the historian, the factor of Wilson's impaired health will have greater and greater emphasis. Many such records made privately at the time will later be public.

I know one writer who, in his letter from Paris to his family, frequently spoke of the wish that Wilson might have a breathing spell of a few weeks or months in which to get back to his best, and the fear, later unhappily justified, that what was such a situation as Creel was born for, such a situation as his temperament rises to. All George Creel wants to know about a controversy is "Who is the other dog?"

In the present case Creel will picture Wilson as a fine and benevolent mastiff beset by a large variety of vindictive mongrels. Creel's natural sympathy for any one who is on the defensive, added to his almost passionate devotion to Wilson, is sure to make of whatever he writes reading that will be most interesting to the public and most uncomfortable to those who have opposed Wilson.

Out of all this and out of other material we shall have in due course the material for an adequate history of one of the most exalted figures that has walked the earth in our time.

Wilson's Illness

Of course, no person with the faintest sensitiveness to the dignity of great events can allow the occasion to pass without reflecting upon the end of the public career of Woodrow Wilson. To the adequate and thoughtful condition of Wilson's personality and his relation to the time he lived in, scholars will give years of labor.

One point which will undoubtedly

from these researches is the fact that during the Peace Conference Wilson was not a well man.

The formal records say it was on September 26, 1919, that Wilson fell sick.

That, however, is merely the day his illness became sensationaly apparent. Everybody knows that any sickness and especially the kind of sickness that struck Wilson down had its beginnings long before the collapse that attracts public attention. In the case of Wilson the period when, it will be found, the beginnings of his illness showed their effects on the quality of his acts was more than a year before—during August, 1918.

In the opinion of the best judges his Russian notes of that month showed his recession from that accuracy of thinking and clarity of expression which raised his documents far beyond any other utterances of

RANDOM NOTES

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

At least two of the women who have come to Washington as a part of the new Administration are certain to give color, sparkle and animation to an unusual degree to the next four years of official Washington.

They are Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the Vice-President-elect, and Miss Alice Robertson, new representative from Oklahoma and the only woman member of Washington's great law making machine.

They are opposite ends of the pole in many characteristics but both belong to the sanguine and rejoicing group of humanity. Mrs. Coolidge is away at the centre of an animated group of callers in the Coolidge apartment at the New Willard and shows an unaffected and almost girlish enthusiasm over the possibilities of life in Washington.

Very lithe and strong of build, with handsome, sparkling dark eyes and clear cut features, Mrs. Coolidge presents an extremely attractive picture in her new inauguration costumes.

"Is dark blue your favorite color?" was asked.

Mrs. Coolidge smiled broadly. "It always has been," she said, "it's so economical."

Mrs. Coolidge seems inclined to go slowly and take advice generally before taking any place in Washington affairs.

Mrs. Coolidge admitted that she was very fond of dancing, but said that she did not care for bridge, was only moderately fond of the theatre and liked her music with a tune somewhere about it.

Like Mrs. Coolidge, Miss Robertson, Congresswoman, does not care for bridge. But Miss Robertson carries her dislike much further.

In the very midst of a crowded tea given in her honor by the Elmira College alumnae yesterday afternoon Miss Robertson boomed out her objection to the game in answer to a question as to whether bridge was one of her favorite diversions.

"If women would spend the time they spend on bridge in studying Government I'd be in favor of their having the suffrage," Miss Robertson continued. "In Oklahoma I've founded a string of 'W. M. K.' clubs—Women Must Know societies for studying government."

"But now that women have the vote," she added, "they ought to belong to parties. It won't be of any value for them to try to keep to themselves. Let them get into the old parties and clean them up."

When asked what she expected to be most interested in legislative work, she replied that she hoped to be put on the Committee of Indian Affairs.

"I suppose it's a good deal for a new member to hope," she said, "but my family have worked for the Indians for ninety-five years. I was born among the Creeks and my mother was born among the Cherokees. Naturally I'm interested."

Miss Robertson's grandparents were missionaries to the Indians. Some one asked if they were Methodists.

"No, they were Presbyterians," she replied. "If they had been Methodists they wouldn't have stayed so long. Methodists have to keep moving on."

The congresswoman is a sturdy looking woman. Her white hair, dressed close to the head, is in contrast to the clear pink of her skin. Her manner is direct and almost off hand, yet sweet and friendly also. She is one of those figures that only the great West dating back to pioneer days could have produced.—New York Sun.

If it were possible for all foods finding their way to your family table to have the care from the standpoint of purity that we give to our milk, you would have nothing to fear—absolutely nothing.

With all due regard to the careful housewife, we do not hesitate to claim greater care than she exercises, because we have the facilities and the necessary utensils for perfect sterilization and sanitation not found in the home.

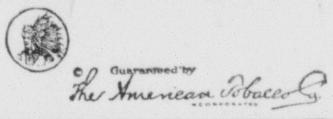

Remember, if your milk receives less care than we give ours, its purity is doubtful.

GRANGE BANQUET BRINGS NEAT SUM FOR SUFFERERS

Jeffersonville Grangers
Clear Hundred And Seventy Dollars For Relief Fund.

Local Men Attend And Deliver Addresses.

Jeffersonville Grangers gave a banquet in Grange Hall Friday evening in the interest of the European Relief fund and approximately $170.00 was realized. More than two hundred attended.

The banquet was held at the instance of Howard Hagler, a member of the Grange, and one of the most active workers in the recent relief campaign.

The banquet was served under the direction of Mrs. Frank Zimmerman and the program which followed was in charge of Mrs. Minnie Reading.

Five local men, upon special request from the Jeffersonville Grange, attended and delivered addresses. They were Judge Charles A. Reid, Messrs. M. E. Hitchcock, George H. Hitchcock, Henry Brownell, John Shepperd and Ed Fite.

Judge Reid spoke in general terms of the work which is lessening the suffering of the starving millions in devastated parts of Europe and in the Near East.

Mr. Brownell dwelt on the fact that there are no class lines in this country and that all are neighbors. He declared this was one of the main factors in the greatness of the country.

High compliment was paid to Jefferson township by M. E. Hitchcock, treasurer of the Fayette County War Orphans Relief Committee. He lauded the accomplishments of the township in always meeting any demands one hundred percent and mentioned especially the work of this township in filling its quota in the War Orphan Relief drive.

Vocal solos were contributed by Miss Martha Ervin, with Mrs. Ford Ervin at the piano, and Miss Ethel Reading, with Mr. Paul Reading accompanist.

A delightful little reading was given by Miss Mary Halcraft.

Officers of the Jeffersonville Grange are: Clark Jennings, Master; Ruth Coe, Secretary; Charles McCoy, Treasurer and Mrs. Minnie Reading, Lecturer.

RUNAWAY CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Excitement at the noon hour was created on the uptown streets Friday when a horse attached to a spring wagon ran the length of South Fayette street and was finally caught in an alley at the rear of the Flowers Bakery.

The horse evaded dozens who tried to stop it and turned into Court from Fayette street. At the corner of Court and North streets the runaway crashed into an automobile and over turned the wagon, then turned back up the street and lodged in an alley in making a turn.

The outfit was said to belong to a man by the name of Jones and came from outside the city limits on the Chillicothe pike.

G.A.R. ENTERTAINS WITH NOON DINNER AT MEMORIAL HALL

Ladies Circle of the G. A. R. and Women of the W. R. C. Are Guests of Soldiers of '65.

No social event in G. A. R. circles is more worthy to be cherished as a delightful memory than the noon dinner of Friday, at which the comrades of the B. H. Millikan and the John M. Bell Post Commanders I. N. Rowe and Isaac Snyder, entertained the women of the W. R. C. and the Ladies Circle of the G. A. R.

The comrades wished to show their appreciation of many courtesies extended to them by the women of their auxiliaries and do so in a royal manner, providing for the satisfaction of the inner man with the utmost generosity.

The G. A. R. hall presented a most attractive appearance, flags waving and four long tables lighted with red and white candles.

Half a hundred veterans acted as the day's hosts and following the blessing by chaplain Nier, a hundred or more women were seated for a splendid dinner. Chicken pie, served most bountifully, with plenty of hot gravy, mashed potatoes, slaw, hot rolls jelly, brick ice cream, home made cake and coffee.

The dinner was excellently prepared and served by committees from the W. R. C. and Circle. Mrs. Henry Robinson and Mrs. Robert Bryson chairmen of the kitchen committee, Mrs. E. J. Stroble and Miss Ruth Smithers, of the table committees, Mrs. J. F. Dennis being in charge as General Manager.

The joyous dinner hour ended, Mrs. Frank G. Carpenter a charming toastmistress, introduced a brief toast hour with a beautiful little talk of appreciation of the spirit which had prompted the G. A. R. comrades to this happy manner of tribute to the women associated with them in the perpetuation of the principles which they fought to establish. On behalf of the W. R. C. and the Circle she toasted the "Grand Boys of 1865-1921."

Comrade Frank M. Allen made happy response in an off hand, humorous little speech, returning the compliments of the women and handing them a bouquet on behalf of the splendid preparation and serving of the dinner. He closed with a most affecting little poem, which called forth from Mrs. Carpenter the pledge that the women would teach their children to remember and honor "The Boys in Blue".

Also called upon and adding words of appreciation to the occasion were comrades Rowe, Harrop, and representing the women's organization, Mesdames Tobin, Ireland, Millikan, Thompson, Philip Rothrock, Ustick and H. V. Rodgers, the latter arousing a hearty encore in her singing of an old darky song of ante bellum times, and Miss Mazie Rowe, who paid special tribute to the "boys" of the Posts as entertainers.

The afternoon ended in congenial visiting and music of violin, piano and drums, furnished by comrades Eli Bereman, Clark Denius, Chas. Karney and Milo Lloyd Clark.

MAY SHIP CORN MARCH 24TH

Announcement comes from the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation that March 24th is the day set for shipment of the corn for European Relief.

It is possible that the local Farm Bureau office may elect some other day for its shipment, as this date is not to be strictly adhered to all over the state and has been only a suggestion.

While Fayette farmers are rallying to the call the request for corn is still being made urgently.

Due care, it is asserted, will be taken to prevent the corn from spoiling. Ohio corn probably will be sent to Baltimore for drying. Some counties will dry their corn before it is loaded while others have not facilities for drying.

A number of counties have already indicated that they will give their quotas. All county farm bureaus are at work on the project, and it is announced that farmers can get details from their county bureaus or county agents.

Endorsement of the project has been made by O. E. Bradfute, President of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, L. J. Taber, Master of the Ohio Grange, and other farm leaders.

RANDOM NOTES— SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

At least two of the women who have come to Washington as a part of the new Administration are certain to give color, sparkle and animation to an unusual degree to the next four years of official Washington.

They are Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the Vice-President-elect, and Miss Alice Robertson, new representative from Oklahoma and the only woman member of Washington's great law making machine.

They are opposite ends of the pole in many characteristics but both belong to the sanguine and rejoicing group of humanity. Mrs. Coolidge is always the centre of an animated group of callers in the Coolidge apartment at the New Willard and shows an unaffected and almost girlish enthusiasm over the possibilities of life in Washington.

Very lithe and strong of build, with handsome, sparkling dark eyes and clear cut features, Mrs. Coolidge presents an extremely attractive picture in her new inauguration costumes.

"Is dark blue your favorite color?" was asked.

Mrs. Coolidge smiled broadly. "It always has been," she said, "it's so economical."

Mrs. Coolidge seems inclined to go slowly and take advice generally before taking any place in Washington affairs.

Mrs. Coolidge admitted that she was very fond of dancing, but said that she did not care for bridge, was only moderately fond of the theatre and liked her music with a tune somewhere about it.

Like Mrs. Coolidge, Miss Robertson, Congresswoman, does not care for bridge. But Miss Robertson carries her dislike much further.

In the very midst of a crowded tea given in her honor by the Elmira College alumnae yesterday afternoon Miss Robertson boomed out her objection to the game in answer to a question as to whether bridge was one of her favorite diversions.

"If women would spend the time they spend on bridge in studying Government I'd be in favor of their having the suffrage." Miss Robertson continued. "In Oklahoma I've founded a string of 'W. M. K.' clubs—Women Must Know societies for studying government."

"But now that women have the vote," she added, "they ought to belong to parties. It won't be of any value for them to try to keep to themselves. Let them get into the old parties and clean them up."

When asked what she expected to be most interested in legislative work, she replied that she hoped to be put on the Committee of Indian Affairs.

"I suppose it's a good deal for a new member to hope," she said, "but my family have worked for the Indians for ninety-five years. I was born among the Creeks and my mother was born among the Cherokees. Naturally I'm interested."

Miss Robertson's grandparents were missionaries to the Indians. Some one asked if they were Methodists.

"No, they were Presbyterians," she replied. "They had been Methodists they wouldn't have stayed so long. Methodists have to keep moving on."

The congresswoman is a sturdy looking woman. Her white hair, dressed close to the head, is in contrast to the clear pink of her skin. Her manner is direct and almost off hand, yet sweet and friendly also. She is one of those figures that only the great West dating back to pioneer days could have produced.—New York Sun.

Mrs. John Carr and daughter, Miss Ruth, charmingly filled the role of hostesses at a beautiful six o'clock dinner Friday night.

A graceful basket of daffodils and fern embellished the daintily appointed table and an elaborate course dinner was served.

The guests were Mrs. M. E. Corbett and daughter, Miss Roxa, Mrs. Laura A. Hegler, Dr. W. E. Ireland and Mr. Samuel Evans.

The members of the Thursday Kensington Club enjoyed the gracious hospitality of Mrs. E. L. Bush, Thursday afternoon, when she entertained at her home on East Market street.

An elaborate lunch was served.

Group Division No. Two of Grace Methodist Church, including the North North, Rawling, East Temple, East Paint, North Fayette, North Main and Hinde, Millwood, Clinton and Leesburg avenue groups, sponsored a very delightful supper and social evening at Grace church Friday.

Two hundred were present, comprising members of these units, with their families and a few invited guests. The chairmen of the units were capably in charge.

The supper was served cafeteria style and the picnic napkins turned out good things to eat galore.

The basement dining room radiated cheer, the lights glowing beneath scarlet shades, and a huge American flag draping the alcove. After a merry supper hour a most enjoyable program was presented in the Sunday School room. Miss Jessie Sunkle contributed a charming vocal solo, Misses Bernice OBriant and Helen Hutson played a pretty piano duet and Jean Michael and Helen Sunkle delighted the listeners with their singing of old time songs.

Mrs. John Robbins gave charming entertainment to the Jeffersonville card club, Friday evening. Five tables of players were engaged in the game of "500."

Miss Helen Fultz assisted Mrs. Robins in serving a dainty collation. The favors were candy corsages.

Mrs. Hugh K. Stewart and Miss Lora Martin, of Spring Hill farm entertained at a pleasurable little dinner Friday evening their brother, Mr. D. W. Martin, Mrs. Martin and daughter, Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Daugherty and daughter, Janet.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller, delightfully entertained the Willing Workers Bible Class of the Staunton M. E. Church, Wednesday evening.

The Vice President, Mrs. Dale Miller had charge of the devotional, and the lesson study was taught by Mrs. Lavin McCoy.

Miss Edith Moore gave a splendid reading, "An Incident of War."

The host and hostess served tempting refreshments during the social hour.

Fifty-five couples attended the K. of P. dance at the K. of P. Hall in Bloomingburg, Friday evening.

Jimmie Dice's "Pepsters" again delighted the dancers with their peppy music. This was the orchestra's second appearance in Bloomingburg.

Japanese lanterns were used in effective decoration, and refreshments were served.

RECOMMENDS DORMANT SPRAY DURING MARCH

March is the best month to apply the dormant spray, according to T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at the Ohio State University. This is one of the most important sprays, and kills scale insects," he says.

"One should apply either lime-sulphur or a miscible oil. Lime-sulphur has value as a fungicide also, and is preferred by many fruit growers for this reason. It prevents peach leaf curl. On peach trees the lime-sulphur should be applied before the buds swell in the spring. It can be safely applied to apple trees up until the time the buds are opening.

"Miscible oils are quite effective against scale, but have very little fungicidal value. They are excellent for old apple trees, badly infected with scales, because the oil has spreading qualities which enable it to better penetrate under the rough bark. They are also preferable for use on shade trees in parks and lawns. This spray does not stain the buildings as does lime-sulphur. The cost of the two is about equal."

REPORTS THEFT OF HIS BICYCLE

Albert Backenstoe, South Fayette street, reported to the police Saturday morning that his bicycle was stolen Thursday night. He said he left it leaning against the porch at his home.

The wheel was a Pathfinder make, red, with black mud guards. The police believe it will soon be located.

VARSIY GIRLS LOSE HARD GAME

Washington High School Girls were defeated in a basket ball game at Springfield Friday evening by the Springfield High Girls, 17 to 5.

Springfield was able to increase its score mainly through accurate shooting of fouls, according to information received here concerning the game.

The Washington lineup was: Helen Karney and Elizabeth Morse, forwards; Bernadine Norris and Portia Brownell, centers; Gale Bowen and Florence Bliss, guards. Virginia Elsie and Katherine McLean were substitutes.

Word reached Principal Probasco Saturday morning that despite the unsettled conditions in Springfield following the race riot there Friday evening the game was played as scheduled and that the members of the team, accompanied by Miss Minnie Grey and Miss Weaver, the coaches, were to arrive home on the D. T. & I. train Saturday evening.

Vocal solos were contributed by Miss Martha Ervin, with Mrs. Ford Ervin at the piano, and Miss Ethel Reading, with Mr. Paul Reading accompanist.

A delightful little reading was given by Miss Mary Halcraft.

RUNAWAY CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Excitement at the noon hour was created on the uptown streets Friday when a horse attached to a spring wagon ran the length of South Fayette street and was finally caught in an alley at the rear of the Flowers Bakery.

The horse evaded dozens who tried to stop it and turned into Court from Fayette street. At the corner of Court and North streets the runaway crashed into an automobile and over turned the wagon, then turned back up the street and lodged in an alley in making a turn.

The outfit was said to belong to a man by the name of Jones and came from outside the city limits on the Chillicothe pike.

MAY SHIP CORN MARCH 24TH

Announcement comes from the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation that March 24th is the day set for shipment of the corn for European Relief.

It is possible that the local Farm Bureau office may elect some other day for its shipment, as this date is not to be strictly adhered to all over the state and has been only a suggestion.

While Fayette farmers are rallying to the call the request for corn is still being made urgently.

Due care, it is asserted, will be taken to prevent the corn from spoiling. Ohio corn probably will be sent to Baltimore for drying. Some counties will dry their corn before it is loaded while others have not facilities for drying.

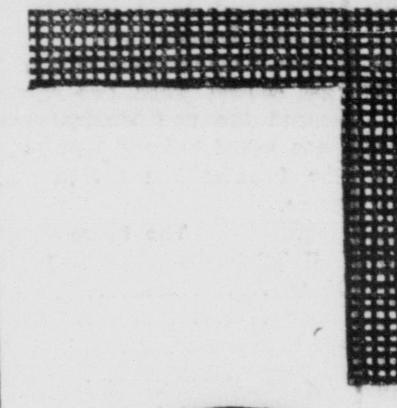

A number of counties have already indicated that they will give their quotas. All county farm bureaus are at work on the project, and it is announced that farmers can get details from their county bureaus or county agents.

Endorsement of the project has been made by O. E. Bradfute, President of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, L. J. Taber, Master of the Ohio Grange, and other farm leaders.
